UPSIDE FROM VIVOCITY

Best of both worlds

Mapletree Commercial Trust (MCT) offers investors exposure to resilient retail and office assets amid industry and economic headwinds. MCT owns VivoCity (c.65% of NPI), Singapore's largest mall, which has by and large bucked Singapore's overall retail sales slowdown. It is one of the best performing malls in Singapore by virtue of its popularity with families and close proximity to Sentosa. In addition, the low level of office lease expiries until FY17/18 minimises potential volatility in rents and occupancy when a large supply of office space enters the CBD in the next 1-2 years.

Manager focussing on improving the trading performance of Vivocity.

Given that rising labour costs have affected retailers' profitability, the Manager is focussed on retaining tenants rather than driving rents. Over the next 18 months, close to 30% of MCT's leases will be due for renewal, a large proportion of which comes from VivoCity. Rather than being a risk, we believe that the large number of expiries could result in positive earnings surprise, as it will give the Manager flexibility in reconfiguring the mall and refreshing the tenant mix, in order to maximise trading performance.

Retail reversions of 13.2% outperforms other retail S-REITs.

Retail rental reversions of 13.2% demonstrate the strong retailer demand at VivoCity. 2Q16 (FYE Mar) shopper traffic and tenant sales grew 3.1% and 5.5% y-o-y respectively, on the back of several long weekends during the quarter (National Jubilee, Election Day), as well as a full quarter of trading from new tenants post completion of AEI works at basement 1. Occupancy costs are in the 18% range, which the Manager considers comfortable.

Valuation:

We have raised our DCF-backed target price to $$1.40 as we roll forward our valuations. At current price, the stock offers 6.2% dividend yield for FY15/16, which is attractive in our view, and total potential returns of 12%. As such, we upgrade our recommendation to BUY.

Key Risks to Our View:

Vacancy risk

While large lease expiries give the Manager the flexibility in refreshing the tenant mix and positioning of the mall, changes have to be timed carefully. Should any of the Manager's plans involve its anchor tenants, there could be some disruptions to the trading of the mall as well as higher frictional vacancies in the near term.

CRITICAL DATA POINTS TO WATCH

Earnings Drivers:

Cost savings drive earnings growth. MCT's 2Q16 distributable income grew 3.3% to S$43m, as (a) full-quarter contribution from completed AEI works at Vivocity and (b) lower utilities expenses was mitigated by (a) frictional office vacancies at PSAB (93.4%) and Mapletree Anson (91.8%) and (b) higher interest expenses (which grew 15% y-o-y). DPU grew 2.5% to 2.02Scts, bringing 1H16 DPU to 4.03Scts, which comprises c.49% of our full year estimates.

Many opportunities for the Manager to refresh VivoCity. In FY16/17, we estimate that 35% of Vivocity's leases by gross rental income will be due for renewal. This will give the Manager ample flexibility to refresh tenant mix, relocate tenants, and reconfigure spaces in order to rejuvenate the mall and optimise trading performance, which will in turn support rental growth over the medium term. Given the Manager's excellent track record so far, we believe that there remain pockets of opportunity for the Manager to improve the efficiency and performance of the mall.

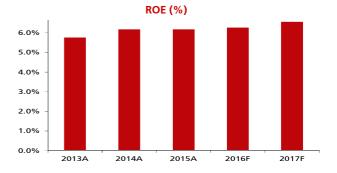

Minimal office expiries until FY17/FY18. Over the next two years, only 2% of the Trust's expiring leases (by gross rent) come from the office sector. This will help to minimise the risk of negative office rental reversions, particularly at Mapletree Anson, should CBD office rents start to decline across the market. Amid potential volatility in office rents and vacancies due to (a) lack of strong demand drivers and (b) large office supply completing over the next two years, MCT offers investors both earnings visibility as well as downside protection.

<b

>Potential acquisitions unlikely in the near term. Mapletree Investments' progressive redevelopment of the Harbourfront and Alexandra precincts ensures a steady pipeline of refurbished or newly developed assets ready to be injected into the REIT. At present, the most likely acquisition target for MCT would be Mapletree Business City 1 (MBC 1), which was completed in 2010. However, we understand that near-term acquisition potential is limited due to certain zoning restrictions relating to the ongoing development of Mapletree Business City 2, which is located next to MBC 1.

Net Property Income and Margins (%) S$ m 77.5% 200 75.5% 150 100 71.5% 50 69.5% 67.5% o 2013A 2014A 2015A 2016F 2017F Net Property Income → Net Property Income Margin %

Balance Sheet:

Lower gearing provides more headroom for inorganic growth. MCT's gearing remains stable at 36.4%, which provides the REIT with flexibility to gear up for debt-funded acquisitions. In addition, the REIT has an ongoing Dividend Reinvestment Plan (DRP), which allows it to fund maintenance capex without having to take on additional debt.

Average debt maturity extended to 3.9 years. MCT's cost of debt increased to 2.42% as the Manager termed out its borrowings earlier in the year. MCT's debt tenure stands at 3.9 years, with close to 70% of debt due only from FY19/20 onwards. The Manager is currently looking to refinance its $$354m debt tranche due Apr 16/Jan 17, and cost of debt is expected to further increase as a result. We have assumed 10bps increase in interest costs p.a. for the next three years.

Share Price Drivers:

Uptick in office performance. While there are minimal office expiries in FY16 and FY17, we note that there are vacancies at PSAB which could take a while to fill, given softness in the leasing market. An improvement in occupancy rates at PSAB could result in some earnings surprise.

Key Risks:

Sustained drop in CBD office rents could impact office earnings in the medium term. Although the REIT's office portfolio is largely located outside the CBD and therefore less exposed to the large office supply completing from 2016 onwards, any prolonged decline in CBD rents would have a negative spillover effect to the city fringe, as narrowing rental differentials could entice tenants to relocate to the CBD instead.

Vacancy risk as the Manager looks to refresh VivoCity. While large lease expiries gives the Manager the flexibility in refreshing the tenant mix and positioning of the mall, changes have to be timed carefully. Should any of the Manager's plans involve its anchor tenants, there could be some disruptions to the trading of the mall as well as higher frictional vacancies in the near term.

COMPANY BACKGROUND

Mapletree Commercial Trust is a real estate investment trust that invests in income-producing office and retail properties in Singapore. A majority of its earnings is derived from Vivocity, which is the largest retail mall in Singapore, and is located at the gateway of Sentosa.
